

August 12, 1939.

Dear Sir - Mr. Noel Hartnett, of the Northern Ireland Publicity Service, Dublin, has given me your address. I am an English sympathiser with the full Irish national claim, and am a writer in the Press, wherein I have advocated that cause. I did so especially in the 1919-22 times, but, owing to other interests taking up my attention, during recent years I have got rather out of touch with people concerned in it. I have, however, retained my former view, and if you could send me any recent information I should like to do some more work in the matter if I can.

Yours sincerely,
J. W. Poynter.

The Secretary,
Anti-Partition League.
